

The American Studies Program
and the Department of History present

“Cartographies of Atlantic Worlds: What Are We Mapping?”

VINCENT BROWN

Professor of History and of African and African American Studies
Duke University

Monday, May 14, 2012, 4:30 p.m.

Wesley/CAS Gallery

reception to follow

Free and open to the public; free parking in UM lots after 4 p.m.

For more information, email atlantic.geographies@miami.edu

Professor Brown's lecture is the keynote address for the Atlantic Geographies Institute, May 14-17, 2012:

<http://www.as.miami.edu/ams/events/atlanticgeographies>

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

Sponsored by the American Studies Program and the Department of History. Co-sponsored by the Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences, the University of Miami Libraries, the Africana Studies Program, the Atlantic Studies Interdisciplinary Research Group, the Department of English, the Department of Geography and Regional Studies, the Graduate School, the Center for the Humanities, the Center for Latin American Studies, the Joseph Carter Fund of the Department of Modern Languages and Literatures, and the Department of Philosophy.